A Place to Belong: Best Friends Forever

Relationships develop by progressing through different stages. Most stop at the first or second stage. A youth ministry can be proactive in moving people through more stages and towards greater intimacy, trust and fellowship.

A baseball diamond can illustrate four stages for developing relationships.

A Place to Belong: Best Friends Forever

1st Base - History: Basic information about one's self (name, school, family, interests, even opinions and feelings).

First base represents HISTORY.

When you get a “Hit” you must travel to all the bases in order to get Home.

Getting Home is what “A Place To Belong” is all about!

A Place to Belong: Best Friends Forever

2nd Base - High 5: Giving affirmation based on the history that was shared. Practice communicating affirmation. Ask for more information so you can add more affirmation.

Second base represents HIGH FIVE.

3rd Base - Help: This posture of vulnerability is possible only after plenty of affirmation has developed strong trust (or unless a person is desperate). It's risky, but it bonds people together and opens the door for mutual help.

Third base represents HELP.

Home Plate - Home: Sometimes referred to as “fellowship” but it’s only attained after going around the bases, building trust through sharing history, being affirmed about many things, risking with one another by asking for help. The result of intimacy can’t be purchased or short-changed. It provides something all humans crave: A PLACE TO BELONG!

CHAPTER 2

A PRICELESS GIFT: WHAT ANYONE CAN GIVE...BUT MOST DON'T

L.I.S.T.E.N.

Proverbs 11:14, "Where there is no counsel, the people fall;
But in the multitude of counselors there is safety."

BE A GOOD LISTENER

Have you ever had someone in your life that really listened to you?

If you did, you were very fortunate.

The need to be listened to is one of the greatest needs of humans.

In this lesson we will focus on active listening skills.

Do you remember the baseball diamond analogy?

Active listening forms the heart of 2nd Base: High Five/ Affirmation.

SHARING EXERCISE

1. Take time right now and get into groups of two or at the most three.
2. Take one minute each sharing about someone in your life who really listened to you, and how you could tell they were a good listener.
3. Ready, go.

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

Most people don't listen. As a result, most of us don't feel listened to. One key way to give affirmation (2nd base) is to listen to a person. There are skills people can learn and practice to become better listeners. Perhaps the first step is to get off of one's own agenda and join another person's agenda.

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

Here are six listening skills to implement as you join another person's agenda.

They form the acronym L.I.S.T.E.N.

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

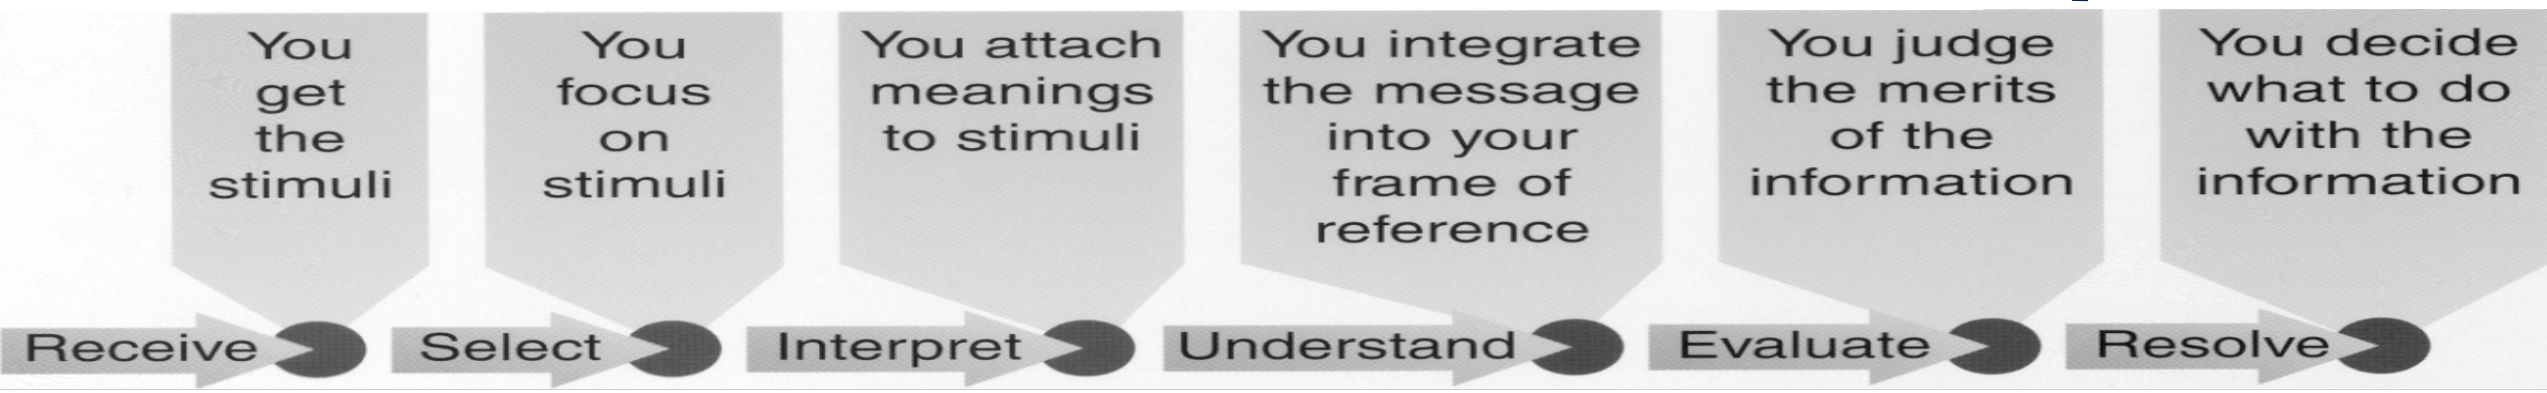

Look. Eye contact provides focus.

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

Interpret. Put into your own words what you heard the person say; ask if that's what they were saying.

Active
Listening

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

Say more. Ask a creative question about the speaker's topic.

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

Tell your own feelings. Sense and name your feelings as you listen.

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

Empathize. Tentatively ask if what you're feeling is the same as the speaker's feelings.

What?
When?
Why?
How?

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

Non-verbal communication. Observe body language, facial expressions, tone of voice, and posture.

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

DON'T DO THESE!

Barriers to avoid in order to be a good listener include:

Expectation

Poor Self-Esteem

Boredom

Daydreaming

Personal Situation

Emotional Mindset

Anger

Barriers

A Priceless Gift: What Anyone Can Give...But Most Don't

- Unfocused listening: allowing one's self to be distracted or multi-tasking.
- Counter stories: telling your own story that is better than the one you just heard.
- Changing the topic: moving to your agenda rather than staying on the talker's agenda.
- Rebuttals: correcting or giving unsolicited advice instead of listening.
- Put downs: might be funny to some, but it stops sharing because it makes the environment unsafe.

Proverbs 10:17, "He who keeps instruction is in the way of life,
But he who refuses correction goes astray."

Barriers

James 1:19, "So then, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath."

Look.

Interpret.

Say more.

Tell your own feelings.

Empathize.

Non-verbal communication.

LET'S PRACTICE

1. Divide into a groups of three.
2. Person A will do the talking, person B uses the listening skills, and person C will be the observer and give feedback later.
3. Spend the next three minutes tell about a memorable vacation or some other experience. Person A talks, person B uses the listening skills, and person C will be the observer and give feedback later.
4. After three minutes, the observer will give feedback for one minute.

Conclusion

- What is so important about listening? I listen!”
- Sure you do. But how? How adapt are you, for example, in getting people to come right out and really talk to you?
- Before you can get the most out of a listening situation, others must first believe that you really want to listen. They must feel that when they tell you something, it will be received by you in the proper spirit.
- Learn to listen beyond the words, with your heart as well as your ears.
- Observe the signs of the inner feelings such as voice quality, facial expressions, body posture and motions, etc. These actions are revealing, and sometimes may have an opposite meaning from the spoken word.
- A friend put it this way: “You listened as if you wanted to hear what I was going to say, as if it was really important to you. And that makes me feel good!”

Proverbs 2:2, “So that you incline your ear to wisdom,
And apply your heart to understanding.”

Jeremiah 29:12, "Then you will call upon Me and go and pray to Me, and I will listen to you."

Closing Prayer

HEAVENLY FATHER,

How many times have You spoken to me and I was not listening?

There are so many things You want to say to me but sometimes I am distracted.

Listening to You each day is a priceless gift.

Help me to listen.

In Jesus name,

Amen.
